Summary of Information

There is an individual walking through an area that is desolate, hot, dusty and has ancient legends or old superstitions attached to it. He feels closed-in and is searching for something. He has a sense of foreboding and fright about him. The road is rocky, long and winding. It is twilight with a warm, desiccating breeze. This person has a facade of pragmatism but is really very traditional and superstitious.

The scene changes to one of explosions and twisted metal along a bumpy asphalt road. An arrow-shaped object points to the right.

Next, there is a specter-like person carrying a brown, leather hand bag. They are walking through a crowded, outdoor area. Near them is a wall or flat surface that has a green painted background. a glowing yellow and dark blue associated with it.

There is a image of a corner of some sort with a person sitting, looking down at an angle to some level below. On this lower level are splotches of color. These splotches are lying both flat and on a vertical surface. A feature with an overlapping appearance, reminiscent of a metallic snake skin, is nearby. There is an old black woman teaching on the street.

An incident will occur between the late evening of 21 JAN and early morning 22 JAN 1991. The place where this will occur is within a cluster of structures which sit along the edge of a body of water. The shore line curves down and away from this settlement.
